QUEEN'S FUNERAL

Has Been Set for Saturday Week, the 2nd of February, at Windsor Palace.

WILL BE GORGEOUS EVENT

Many Crowned Heads of Europe Are Leaving Their Capitals to Be in Attendance.

KING EDWARD'S ASCENSION SPEECH

London, Jan. 24.—It has been decided that Queen Victoria's funeral shall take place February 3, at Windsor. Nearly all the crowned heads of Europe are starting for England to attend the services. A great pageant of warships is to accompany the royal yacht bearing the remains from Cowes to Windsor.

A formal proclamation of Edward's ascension was read this morning with impressive ceremonies.

The king yesterday took the oath of office before the privy council. The ceremony was interesting and according to precedent. The king was in a separate apartment from the privy councilors.

The following is the full text of his majesty's ascension speech:

"Your Royal Highness, my lords and gentlemen—This is the most painful occasion of which I shall ever be called upon to address you. My first and melancholy duty is to announce to you the death of my beloved mother, the queen, and I know how deeply you and the whole nation, and I think I may say, the whole world, sympathize with me in the irreparable loss we have all sustained.

"I need hardly say that my constant endeavor will be always to walk in her footsteps.

"In undertaking the heavy load which now devolves upon me, I am fully determined to be a constitutional sovereign in the strictest sense of the word, and so long as there is breath in my body to work for the good and amelioration of my people.

"I have resolved to be known by the name of Edward, which has been borne by six of my ancestors. In doing so I do not undervalue the name of Albert, which I inherit from my ever-to-be-lamented great and wise father, who by universal consent is, I think, deservedly known by the name of Albert the Great, and I desire that his name should stand alone.

"In conclusion I trust to parliament and the nation to support me in the arduous duties which now devolve upon me by inheritance, and to which I am determined to devote my whole strength during the remainder of my life."

The lord chancellor (Lord Salisbury) then administered the oath to the king. Afterwards the various members of the council, commencing with the lords in council, took the oath of allegiance and then passed in turn before his majesty as at a levee.

There were cheers of "Long live the king" heard everywhere and a salute fired in James Park.

An inspiring civic procession was one of the earlier incidents of the day. The usual mourning decree was issued.

The official declaration as to the cause of the queen's death is "senile decay."

GOING TO EUROPE

Omaha, Neb., Jan. 24.—Hon. W. J. Bryan, in a private letter, says he is soon to go to Europe. He wants to make a study of colonial dependencies. He will start on the trip as soon as he gets his paper in good working order. He will not cease his control, however, of its columns nor his work therefor.

LONG OVERDUE.

FEARS FOR THE SAFETY OF FIVE AMERICAN VESSELS.

San Francisco, Jan. 24.—Of the vessels due at coast ports, several are about given up as lost. The schooner Vine is out 108 days from Port Bragg for Molokai and has not been spoken or sighted since she sailed.

The schooner Falcon is sixty-four days out from Salinas Cruz for Port Townsend, and small hopes exist for her reaching her destination.

The American ship Charmer is out forty-five days from Port Townsend for Kahalo with coal, and 15 per cent. re-insurance is offered on her.

The schooner Eam Baxter is fifty-three days' out from Seattle for Honolulu.

The American ship Cyrus Wakeland is making a long voyage from Naimo to Manila. She is out ninety-four days and nothing has been heard of her since she sailed.

DISTURBED WORSHIP

YOUNG MAN RESENTS DRUNKEN CONDUCT TOWARDS

His Mother—Fight at Rescue Mission Results in Warrants Being Issued.

There was quite a fight at the Rescue mission on South Third street last night, and as a result two boys, Ed Wilson and Alf Middlewast, were warranted for disturbing public worship.

Middlewast was arrested by Officer Chas. Hart, and recognized for his appearance tomorrow morning.

He claims he was there with his mother, and that Wilson, who was drunk, wrote a note and tried to make her take it. The young man resented it and the fight ensued. It is not thought to be a case of the trouble and the sympathies of the police are with him.

Wilson could not be found this morning. The trouble at the church almost broke up the service and created great excitement.

INDICATIONS FOR A COLD WAVE TODAY AND TOMORROW.

The weather predictions for today and tomorrow are for fair and colder weather. The thermometer has been falling all day, 37 being the minimum last night.

A MEAN DOG.

A big yellow cur dog has been making things lively near the foot of Broadway all day, and even Capt. Joe Fowler's mail stone has no palpable effect on him. The animal offers to touch no poison but is death on other dogs, especially smaller ones. The prospects are that before morning the officious canine will turn his toes to the daisies, as he whipped "Curly," the city hall dog, today.

FIREY WEDGE

Driven Through Montreal Last Night, Three Blocks of Valuable Property Being Destroyed.

BOARD OF TRADE BUILDING

Explosives, High Wind, Falling Walls and Flaming Tongues Too Much for Firemen.

THERE WERE NO LIVES LOST, HOWEVER

Montreal, Quebec, Jan. 24.—The business district of this city was visited last night by the most disastrous fire it has known for fifty years. The loss is placed at nearly $1,000,000, though many believe that it will reach more. The greatest loss is the board of trade building, which was built in 1891 at a cost of $1,000,000, and is now a mass of ruins. It had more than 250 tenants, and their loss will be about $350,000. No lives were lost.

The fire started at 8:10 o'clock in the clothing house of M. Saxe & Sons, in St. Peter street, and before the firemen could get to work the flames had spread to the Nelson Fireworks building.

Scores of explosions followed the flames in the building, and in ten minutes the eastern wall fell into the street, becoming frightened at a heavy wagon wheel near them, and landing the huge wagon in a ditch near the N. C. and St. L. tracks, a short distance below the platform. A heavy weight was attached to the bridge, but the horses carried it along as if it were of wood.

Fortunately neither wagon nor horses were much injured when the wagon was overturned at the bottom of the ravine.

Mr. Wm. Bogeno started on the Benton road this morning to see a sick relative. A short distance from town a runaway wagon struck his vehicle and it badly broke it. Mr. Bogeno was forced to return to the city for another buggy.

Mr. Wes Orr's horse ran away with his grocery wagon near Eleventh and Caldwell streets about noon today and destroyed the vehicle. In addition to throwing the contents out.

ARGUMENTS IN THE BIG DAMAGE SUIT BEGIN AT ONCE.

The evidence in the $20,000 damage suit of the Deering Harvesting company against the Ferguson-Palmer company was finished at noon today, and arguments begin this afternoon. The case will probably be finished before noon tomorrow.

HOLLAND RELEASED.

HIS UNCLE FROM TRIGG COUNTY TOOK THE FAMILY AWAY.

Herbert Holland, the boy who was arraigned before Judge Sanders yesterday for fighting another boy named Henderson, was released last evening. He is the same boy who went to the mill on the cottage factory a short time ago.

Last evening his uncle from Trigg county came down and took young Holland, against whom a $10 fine was suspended, and the entire family with him to Trigg county to give them a home on the farm.

The uncle who has given them the home is Mr. Alf Harris.

THE HOWARD CASE.

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 24.—On motion of the appellee in the case of John Howard, the alleged murderer of William Goebel, against the commonwealth, Chief Justice Payson, of the court of appeals, yesterday gave time until January 30 next for the filing of briefs.

LIVELY RUNAWAY.

THE AMERICAN EXPRESS HORSES DASH INTO A DITCH.

With Little Damage—Mr. Wm. Bogeno's Buggy Broken Up—A Grocery Wagon Smashed.

The big horses attached to the American Express wagon ran away at the Illinois Central depot about noon today, becoming frightened at a heavy wagon wheel near them, and landing the huge wagon in a ditch near the N. C. and St. L. tracks, a short distance below the platform. A heavy weight was attached to the bridge, but the horses carried it along as if it were of wood.

Fortunately neither wagon nor horses were much injured when the wagon was overturned at the bottom of the ravine.

Mr. Wm. Bogeno started on the Benton road this morning to see a sick relative. A short distance from town a runaway wagon struck his vehicle and it badly broke it. Mr. Bogeno was forced to return to the city for another buggy.

POINTED A PISTOL.

AL PURCELL FINED $50 AND COSTS IN JUDGE SAN. DERS' COURT.

Al Purcell, a shanty dealer, was fined $50 and costs in Judge Sanders' court this morning for pointing a pistol at one Harrison Cates. They are both shanty dealers and were moored below the incline.

The pistol affair was the result of a quarrel between the two men, Purcell claiming that Cates stole a fishing lure, and that he gave him a good looking for it, which saved him the trouble.

Pittsburg, Jan. 24.—J. P. Morgan & Co., of New York, have purchased 75,000 acres of coal land in Green county. The deal, which was concluded this week, is one of the largest ever closed in Western Pennsylvania. ELOPING COUPLES.

Evansville, Ind., Jan. 24.—Joseph Rettig and Nellie Cates, Carl Cates and Maggie Brown and Robert Howard and Pearl Roll, eloped from Henderson, Ky., and were married. They crossed the river in a skiff, their first father following. The fathers reached here after the ceremony had been said.

BACK TO CUBA.

New York, Jan. 24.—Charles F. W. Neely, who is charged with embezzling the funds of the Cuban post office, will sail for Havana on Saturday on the steamship Mexico to stand trial for his crimes. The warrant for Neely's extradition was received today from the secretary of state.

ENVOYS SPLIT

Are Unable to Come to Terms Over the Chinese Note and Expeditions.

A COMPROMISE SUGGESTED

Japan Favors a Gradual Withdrawal and Turning Over to Chinese of Land Vacated.

GERMANY WANTS DAMAGES MADE GOOD

Peking, Jan. 24.—The German minister, on instructions from his government, it is thought, disapproves the tone and contents of the Chinese note, which was presented several days since. An attempt will be made to assemble the ministers to draw up a reply, but no agreement or concerted action is impossible. The Chinese request to stop expeditions and to withdraw the foreign troops to garrison towns and roads is the point upon which the concert will split.

The Japanese minister today proposed a compromise course of gradual withdrawal of foreign forces and turning over of territory relinquished to Chinese troops, but it has small hopes of success. If the ministers represent the fixed policies of their governments, the concert of the powers is ended. In default of a conference the time has come to resume our traditional policy and to outline a safeguard of our vast interests, present and prospective.

Germany objects to the withdrawal of troops until the indemnity damages are made good and also because the security for carrying out the peace conditions are merely on paper and without any kind of guarantee.

A GORGEOUS FUNERAL.

NIGHT CEREMONY AND BURIAL OF THE QUEEN BESIDE HER HUSBAND.

A London dispatch says: All the royalty of Europe will gather at the funeral of Queen Victoria. The assemblage will be unprecedented, because her majesty was closely related to the European courts, big and little. The queen will in all probability be buried within ten days at Frogmore mausoleum, which she erected over the Prince Consort in Windsor park.

In former days a month was allowed to elapse between death and burial of a sovereign.

For one day the body of the queen will lie in state in Waterloo chamber, Windsor castle. The funeral will take place at 9 o'clock, with the utmost pomp and ceremony, in St. George's Chapel.

In addition to the Emperor of Germany, it is expected that the King of Denmark, Greece, Belgium, Serbia, Saxony and Portugal will attend, together with many lesser rulers. There has been no burial of a sovereign for nearly sixty-four years. Since the funeral of William IV, the world has moved forward so far that even the funeral of a British monarch will be utterly unlike that of any that has gone before.

It is believed that a simple ceremony will be held at Osborne house and that the body of the queen will then be placed on the royal yacht and conveyed to Portsmouth.

A funeral train will take the royal dead and the mourning family to London. It will arrive at the Victoria Station. The funeral procession will be formed at the railway station, and the last stage of the journey to Frogmore will begin.

In the grounds of Frogmore, not far from Windsor castle, on the left hand side of the long walk, is the magnificent mausoleum containing all that is mortal of the Prince Consort.

This building, cruciform in shape and Romanesque in style, cost $1,000,000, the amount having been provided by her majesty herself. It was consecrated in 1862, a year after the prince's death. He was at first laid to rest in St. George's Chapel, Windsor.

In the ornate, octagonal chamber of the Frogmore mausoleum, thirty feet in diameter and sixty-five feet high, is a double sarcophagus of dark gray granite, resting on polished black marble. It bears a recumbent statue of Prince Albert, executed in white marble, by Marchetti, and at each corner is the bronze figure of a kneeling angel.

The queen will be buried here, beside the dust of her "great and good husband," whose loss she never ceased to mourn.

FORECAST OF FASHIONS.

Escorial grandeur is another fabric finding favor in the east. Its pattern is stiff and the material coarse, but the print looks like genuine applique. It is claimed that it will launder as well as muslin.

The regulation standard skirt hangs from a belt that holds also a five-gored foundation skirt. There are other models with stitched knife pleats in different widths ending in arrow-head or trefoil devices.

China silk, French lawn liberally silk and surah laid in fine fingerlike tufts are the fabrics most used for gumpies on every-day gowns. An oblong cut-street buckle will add a touch of smartness to the ordinary velvet bow.

The fashionable incursions of lace have grown larger and larger, and the cloth or silk of which the gumpie is made has grown smaller and smaller, so that conditions are entirely reversed and the gown is almost made of lace.

Strappings of white satin are to be seen on some of the new fangled gowns, ornamenting both the skirt and waist. In one pretty blue one there is a little vest to match the white satin, a severe vest finished with blue buttons to match the foulard, while inside is a soft little vest of white mousseline.

For day costumes gold and silver buttons are the mode, especially the former; high waisted belts, fringed sashes, cravats and old-fashioned neckties. The latter is now very fashionable in Paris. It is draped around the shoulders and tied in front with what material it is made, it seems stiff and often ungraceful.

SUN job office is unoccupied.

COLD WAVE

Hits the Yukon Country and the Mercury Falls to 78 Below Zero.

GIBSON'S TRIAL NEXT WEEK

Anderson, The Pejured Goebel Witness, Indicted For Failing to Support His Family.

CHINESE STABLE COMING TO KENTUCKY

Seattle, Wash., Jan. 24.—A cold wave of a frightful frigidness has struck the Yukon country. The mercury has fallen to 78 below zero and there is certain to be great suffering even in that country so used to cold weather.

Franklin, Ky., Jan. 24.—An early morning fire destroyed three stores. The loss will aggregate $18,000.

Mayville, Ky., Jan. 24.—Gibson, the Catterburg child murderer, was removed to that place next week for trial. He shows neither remorse or fear.

Middlesboro, Ky., Jan. 24.—Finley Anderson, a famous witness in the Goebel case and a confessed perjurer, has been indicted for failure to support his family.

San Francisco, Jan. 24.—The Chinese consul general has started a racing stable and will bring his horses to Kentucky for the spring events.

MANY RAISES.

SUPERVISORS ADJOURN TEMPORARILY—NOTICES BEING SENT OUT.

The board of county supervisors has adjourned temporarily and Clerk Frank Digel today began sending out notices to property owners of raises in assessment.

The total amount of the raises made will probably be $300,000, although as usual this will be greatly reduced when protests are heard. The board reconvenes to hear protests February 6th, and will then be in session five days.

The house of representatives has passed an act allowing all employees in oary yards, gun factories, naval stations and arsenals, a vacation of 15 days each year without loss of pay. That is only fair, considering similar allowances in other branches of the service.

SKUNK FARM IN INDIANA.

Bullington, Ind., Jan. 24.—George W. Leach, of this city, will establish a skunk industry on his farm east of Bullington, the second experiment of its kind in this country. Mr. Leach expects to realize quite a sum from manufacturing furriers in the United States and Europe by dealing in pelts taken from this animal. The fur, which is valuable when dressed, is called in this country Alaskan sable, and only those persons who are expert can detect the difference.

Nervous Debility.

An overworked nervous system is always an exhausted nervous system. The body is robbed of its vital forces, the nutritive organs suffer for lack of control. The supply of blood and the action of the heart are seriously disturbed. Sick headaches, dull pains in back of neck and down the spine, dizziness, ringing in the ears, dimness of vision, twitching of eye lids and eye muscles and a general tired feeling tell of the failing strength. There is nervousness, irritability, wakefulness, loss of memory, brain fog and depression of spirits. A remedy for nervous debility should begin at the foundation of the trouble; and, by checking the unnatural waste of nerve-force and stimulating the digestive organs, build up the vitality and resistive strength of the whole system.

THURSDAY, JAN. 24, 1901.

The presidential boom already begun are liable to be frost bitten ere 1903.

The world is mourning with England the death of Queen Victoria. There is unusual recognition of a great loss in a great nation. Even the carpers, who find it timely to criticize England as a nation, praise the queen as a ruler.

Public-spirited citizens of Atlanta are moving for the holding there of a great Textile exposition in 1902. They propose to raise a preliminary fund of $300,000 for this purpose and have petitioned the general council to provide the nucleus of this with an appropriation of $100,000. Briefly stated, their purpose is "to demonstrate to the world the marvelous progress already made in the manufacture of textiles in the south" and to help southern manufacturers to improve their products both in quality and quantity. This is the spirit which builds into prosperous cities hamlets and towns.

There is international interest in a decided respect in the accession of the Prince of Wales to the throne of Great Britain. This attaches to the fact that great importance lies in future government of Europe if not world control. It must be cited, to make this idea clearer, that both the German Emperor and the Czar of Russia are his nephews—not to mention the numerous minor crowned heads among his relatives and connections—and he is on terms of friendly and confidential intercourse with both of them. Such a triumvirate, representing the three greatest European powers, should be able to command the peace of the world. Though the time has gone by when national movements could be determined by monarchs, rather than by the nations themselves, the German Emperor does not yet believe this and the Czar still has a position of tremendous power. In the present attitude of England, the nation will welcome an accession of personal influence by the new king. All Europe, indeed, is very much alive, and these three men could do a great deal to set things right. By constant intermarriage the royal families are gradually being combined into one, a sort of governing trust. In time, no doubt, they will become extinct, but meanwhile a family gathering takes on the character of an imperial convocation and the world ought to get some advantage out of this "community of interest."

KIND OF HUSBAND I Should Choose For My Daughter.

(By the Countess Schmeemann.)

LET THERE BE SPIRITUAL SYMPATHY.

"What kind of a husband shall I choose for my daughter?" I would advise that both mother and daughter put this matter into the hands of God and let him choose for you; then and only then will your daughter's happiness be secured. If we carefully study our Bible, we will see that in the beginning of humanity God very positively and specially took the marriages into his own hand. I believe that it assuredly been God's will all along, that no marriages should be favored except by such special orders from God. Our own choosing the very best is short sighted and limited, and we cannot overcome two difficulties: the one is that a human being, especially a man who goes out wooing, can disguise his character and the second is, that characters actually do change under the influence of circumstances. You might, for example, choose a quiet, self minded husband for your daughter, and ten years later, after a "warring, troublesome" nature, find that she possesses an irritable nature; or in the character of an energetic, active young man good luck and the accumulation of wealth may destroy these qualities, and he turns out an egotistic, lazy and wholly good-for-nothing fellow.

Now, if a mother is perfectly sure that in the case of her daughter it is God's will that she should be married, she has not only the right, but it is her duty so far as to care for the things of this world as to prevent her daughter from getting the wrong husband. The mother's duty should be rather limited to prevent wrong, than to choose for her daughter.

How are we then to behave? First: Live near God and bring your mind near to him; be led by him very specially in this matter. If you feel that she should marry, do not think of any but a Christian husband. Yet not he that speaks best of Christianity, neither he who knows most of it, will give you as good a guarantee of happiness for your daughter as the one whose character and daily life are witnesses of his Christianity.

Observationsat Random

While it may not be cited as a cause for so many marriages in Kentucky, it is cheaper to have the knot tied in our neighboring city than in Kentucky. It now costs $1 to get a license there but a movement is on foot and is being sanctioned and encouraged by Southern Illinois papers, to increase the fee to $2. The matrimonial business has been so on a boom in the celebrated Gretna Green that the natives think they see a way to reduce taxation, by increasing the cost of getting married.

Says the Metropolis Herald: "A man would be more likely to realize the responsibility and seriousness of a marriage obligation if it cost him something, and further, a man who is not able to pay $2 for marriage license and better join some bachelor's club and stay out of the Cupid business."

Since it was announced that persons who swept trash from business houses on to the street would be prosecuted, a few parties have resorted to a new dodge to evade the regulation. They sweep the trash up about the front door, and when no one is looking suddenly shove it all out on the sidewalk and leave it there.

While the movement is not so good a receipt as the street it is better than having the trash on the floor, if it is argued. The subterfuge will not work long, however, for after those who have been addicted to the custom have been given a few days in reform, warrants will be sworn out for all violations of the ordinance.

"No one except a drummer knows what hotel life in a country town is like," declared a traveling man in the depot lunch room the other day. I had an experience not long ago down in Tennessee that beat the band.

"I had been out in the country and got in late. The hotel clerk was busy writing a letter near a small 'snaky lamp' and didn't have time to show me to a room. The porter, who was also waiter and bell boy, was out in society, and the clerk said: 'Go up those steps and take the first room to your right. Maybe somebody's in it, but it's the best we can do tonight. Key's in the door.'

"Well, I was glad to get any kind of lodging, and the clerk was such an indifferent specimen of innocent assurity that I didn't have the heart to kick. So I just climbed those steps and went to the first room to the right. The door was partly open, and I saw by the dim lamp light that there was a man in the bed.

"I hate to disturb you, but I guess I'll have to ask you to share your bed with me," I said cheerfully as I began to disrobe. The man said nothing and I concluded he was either some grumpy old odder who didn't relish the intrusion or else was too sleepy to either remonstrate or be civil. I pulled in and gently shoved him over. Then I fell asleep.

"I don't know how long I slept, but I was disturbed by voices. I cautiously peeped from beneath the cover and saw a young man and woman sitting in the room. They were talking in low whispers, and presently he pulled her over to him and kissed her."

"George," she said reproachfully, "how could you with poor cousin George lying there dead?"

"When she said dead, gentlemen, I elevated that cover and went straight up, accompanying my action with a whoop that must have been heard all over town. When I lit I grabbed my clothes and in a dark corner of the hall dressed.

"Meanwhile I heard feminine shrieks and ejaculations of surprise from the men, and doors all up and down the hall began to softly open, and half clad figures to peer in sheepish curiosity through the cracks.

"The young man who kissed the girl was running wildly about, begging someone to send for the doctor, declaring that the dead had arisen, and the clerk downstairs had actually abandoned his better long enough to assure the newly lodged individual with a conspicuous star on his bosom and the breath of drivers 'high balls,' that no murder had been committed.

"I indignantly asked the clerk what in the hell he put me in bed with a corpse for, and about that time the doctor arrived. The clerk lunged filitiously until his sides ached, and the doctor was sent to attend the young lady who was in the room when her cousin George came to life. But when he heard the facts he caught the laughing fever as good and strong himself he could do nothing for her.

"I got out of that place, and have never been back, but if that clerk and I ever meet again, there'll be a rough house, sure. Think of him putting a man in bed with a corpse. Now wouldn't that jar you?"

And relighting his cigar the drummer ran out to get aboard the train.

ANCIENT ROME'S PORT.

It Was at Ostia, a Place Now Miles Island.

When ancient Rome numbered a million inhabitants the task of provisioning it was no small one, so the port of Ostia, now twenty-one miles by rail from Rome, was the most important in the empire. It was settled in the second century after the foundation of Rome, and rapidly became an important commercial center. At present the Tiber washes down $500,000 tons of sand a year, and this gradual extension of the delta has left Ostia miles inland. At Ostia the warehouses covered one-half the town, which was two miles long by one wide. The city contained five temples, villas and theaters and the ruins were so extensive that for five centuries the villagers hurried about for time without exhausting the supply, and when Cosimo de Medici visited Ostia he found the villagers engaged in burning a whole ancient marble temple to get lime. The peasants have destroyed many valuable old buildings and statues in this way, according to the Scientific American. At present there are ruins of some of the old warehouses with their floors raised three feet above the pavements, and of private houses. The manner in which these ruins have withstood the centuries speaks well for the masonry work. The bricks are about one foot eleven inches square, the stone carefully cut and fitted, and the effect is neat and rather beautiful, though somewhat covered with mud. Egypt alone shipped 190,000,000 bushels of grain to Rome, and Sicily, Sardinia and other places poured in their enormous supplies of foodstuffs. In addition to this may be reckoned the vast quantities of building materials, especially marble, which were imported. The Claudian harbor was used as a great naval station, and here was also the central postoffice for foreign correspondence.

OLD SALT'S PHILOSOPHY.

Tells a Party of Boys Why Some Birds Commit Suicide.

While hunting for birds' nests recently in clumps of virgin forest that fringe the left shore at Edgewater, a suburb of Chicago, a party of high school pupils discovered a dead woodpecker hanging head downward from the limbless side of a tall tree. Its legs did not seem attached to anything, but on closer scrutiny a particularly fine specimen, though very strong, was found entangling the tiny bird's claws. The youths had not concluded their speculations as to "the how and the whys" of the bird's sad end when a sea-bored sailor of the type of Coleridge's "Ancient Mariner" arose from a mist out of the lake and, approaching the scene of the discovery, gave a curious explanation of the puzzle the students were revolving in their minds. What the sailor said was about as follows: "A long time ago, I am grieved to say, that the tropical custom of the so-called spider-webs among small birds of the South Sea Islands spreading to the feathery tribes of the northern latitudes. That you, my youthful friends, may understand my meaning, I it is only necessary to say that the aborigines of many tropical countries have a pretty tale telling how the male bird, in the act of entangling its mate in an overhanging web of the spider-in-fact, whenever the female for which an attachment has been formed, is mysteriously lured from its haunts and has died or been trapped for the millinery shops of the highly civilized nations."

It was quite impossible to make hay while the sun shone in Bedfordshire and Bucks. Gangs of men, women and children had to rest by day and work by moonlight. Large fields of hay were dried and farm houses dropped dead.—London Express.
